

Main data table with multiple columns for different economic sectors and rows for various metrics. The table is organized into several large sections, each with a header row. The columns represent different categories and sub-categories, while the rows represent specific data points and totals. The table is highly detailed and contains a vast amount of numerical data.